What's hot in beauty NOW

— JACQUI STAFFORD

NO TAN LINES

Beauty editors around New York these days are looking remarkably bronzed, sporting just-returned-from-the-islands suntans. Since we all know better than to bake in the sun (don't we?) I thought I'd investigate. It's all about Mystic Tan's ingenious 30-second tanning spray mist that creates a foolproof, even tan by using the body's magnetic properties to attract the tanning mist to your skin. Completely UV-free, everyone from Jessica Simpson to Christina Aguilera to Paula Abdul is addicted. Available at locations nationwide. (mystictan.com)

LIGHT THEORY

So delightfully adorable, Origin's Light Makes Right Color-Correcting Concealer manages to transform your makeup bag's un-sexiest item — concealer — into something you'll want to whip out at the dinner table. Oh, and just so you know, lavender counteracts yellow blotches, and green hides any redness. (origins.com)

WALKING TOUR

A few new fragrance addictions: Bond No. 9 has charted a veritable scented map to capture each of the Big Apple's diverse neighborhood sensibilities. Stroll around audacious Nuit de Noho — with notes of jasmine, vanilla and patchouli — or whimsical Broadway Nite, with green violet, rose, vanilla beans and musk. (877-273-3369)

PILL POPPING

The newest accessory backstage at the recent fashion shows? (Tiny dogs are so last season.)

These days, no self-respecting style-obsessed model is seen without her packet of Momints — miniscule aqua spheres of peppermint breath-freshening liquid mints that explode in your mouth and leave you with kiss-me-now, mint-infused breath all day.
